12:40PM-12:50PM	Janice posed a question to the group: How can this group be a better opportunity to really amplify the input and voice of people have used our services? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Janice made clear that she does not discount the experience of family member or those who accessed services a while back, she said that she thinks people want to really hear from those accessing services now. ○ Jessica: It has been her experience we're more likely to bring people to the table with mental health backgrounds, rather than SUD, because when people obtain sobriety they tend to like to put their SUD behind them. Working on boards can be boring to some, so we'll need to find ways to entice people to participate. Perhaps we can give gift certificates, write materials in easier to understand language (less abbreviations), fun groups. ○ Danielle asked if the people asking Janice about BHAB and lived experience not know that a few members have experience, or do they just dismiss it because they are now on the board? ○ Danielle also mentioned that she works with other groups that hand monetary incentives such as gift cards to entice people because it is a volunteer position. She also said that Peers and case manager could spread the word
