3. COMMUNICATION FROM THE FLOOR

A. Public Comment

Jenny Reeves-Johnson, representing the POWER Group, thanked the city for collaborating on a public art project titled "Invitation to Tread Lightly," which features handmade clay tiles about a healthy Popo Agie River ecosystem.

Charles Woolwine presented information about Wyoming alcohol licensing laws and raised concerns about the health and welfare impacts of alcohol, particularly noting Wyoming's high suicide rates.

4. MAYOR AND COUNCIL UPDATES

Council Member Larsen provided an update on the Senior Center, the Solid Waste Board, and the Fly-In. He will attend the Popo Conservation District Meeting tomorrow.

Council Member Cassady thanked the community for supporting the 9/11 ceremony, noted meetings with the golf course board and Planning Commission, and expressed appreciation for upcoming art panel installations at JC Park.

Council Member D Hahn reported no city business but shared his recent experience spending 14 days at a fire tanker air base.

Council Member Cox provided an update on the Lander Chamber of Commerce.

Council Member J Hahn encouraged support for the LVHS football team.

Mayor White thanked community members and organizers for the 9/11 ceremony, highlighted the upcoming art exhibit, and reported the resolution of a resident's property concern. She recognized volunteers for their contributions to recent community events, reminded the council of the upcoming Region 4 WAM meeting and legislative update, and announced her role on the WAM Education Committee.

5. STAFF REPORTS

Interim Chief Waugh reported that new mobile data terminals in vehicles are improving response times and efficiency. Calls for service, traffic stops, and DUIs are trending lower than last year, though crashes remain higher statewide. She highlighted Fremont County's joint DUI task force, which has significantly reduced impaired driving crashes, and clarified misconceptions about traffic stop numbers in recent news coverage.

Public Works Director Hopkin reported that the McFarland and sidewalk projects are nearing close out, while Lincoln Street work will extend into next year due to weather and unforeseen issues. He noted that lessons learned are being gathered, with updates to standards, specifications, and contract provisions planned before future projects are bid.

Assistant Mayor RaJean Strube Fossen reported that the city's 2022 PL-566 application—to expand late-season water storage at Worthen and Fry Lakes for recreation, flood control, agriculture, and municipal supply—has been revived, with an all-day meeting set for next Thursday; a related state-funded feasibility study by the Taylor and Enterprise districts is due by year-end. She noted WYDOT's year-end TAP status report is in Council's Dropbox. Gannett Peak received a schedule extension through December due to missing parts, and a 2025 TAP application for Phase 2 should be decided in October. The Baldwin Creek & South 9th contract was terminated after requested scope changes weren't granted; staff will likely reapply with the intended scope and pursue additional water/sewer funding. The Popo Agie River Parkway path design is closed out and ready for a future construction grant; the Popo Agie River Park subdivision goes to the Planning Commission this Thursday and, if recommended, to the next Council voting session. The Jefferson Street extension into Popo Agie River Park is slated to bid in late October or early November.
