DISCUSSION REGARDING THE ARTFUL INLETS PROGRAM

Ms. Michele Loudenback, Environmental & Sustainability Manager, said the City of Norman Utilities Department has partnered with the Norman Arts Council for the Sixth Annual Artful Inlets Program, an art-based initiative to educate and raise awareness about the importance of local water quality. She said research began in 2017 to do something similar to what Northwest Arkansas and others are doing for storm drain art. She said a Memorandum of Agreement with the Norman Arts Board was approved by the Council and had an initial budget of $5,000 with $2,500 contributed by each (NAB and City of Norman). Ms. Loudenback said all the materials and supplies are provided to the artist(s), and the original stipend was $400 for each artist, but it is currently $750 per artist.

Ms. Loudenback said this year's theme is "Think Blue, Act Green," six new installations and three renovations are scheduled. She said all are located within the Blue Neighborhood Pilot Project area (between Tecumseh Road and E. Rock Creek Road and between N. Porter Avenue and 12th Avenue NE) and at three City Parks (Vineyard Park, Sequoyah Trail Park, and Chisholm's Cattle Trail Park). Ms. Loudenback said the Blue Neighborhood Pilot Program is a cost-share initiative to improve water quality in the Lake Thunderbird watershed, i.e., water conservation, soil health, and wildlife habitat. She said past Artful Inlet locations include Main Street (2019 and 2020), Legacy Trails (2021), Lions Park (2022), and Colonial Estate Park (2023).

Ms. Loudenback highlighted the timeline is as follows:

- February 15: Call for artists
- March 15: Submission deadline
- March 29: Artist selection
- April 11-12: Art installation
- April ??: Celebratory walk-through

The Board thanked Ms. Loudenback for her presentation and continued efforts to educate the public about the importance of Norman's water quality.

ANNUAL REPORT FROM WESTWOOD TENNIS

Mr. Marc Claude, a Westwood (WW) tennis professional, said WW Tennis's mission is to serve the public and promote the game of tennis to all ages and levels. He told WW Tennis that it had another great year in 2023 and continues to be one of the busiest tennis centers in Oklahoma. Mr. Claude' said WW Tennis hosted 12 junior and high school tournaments, bringing in over 300 kids from the Missouri Valley region; hosted over 55 adult USTA league matches; practices for both Norman middle-school teams and Terre Verde (who started their program last year and WW Tennis provided a coach). He said WW Tennis has 14 teaching pros or instructors and has a waiting list for lessons.

Mr. Claude' explained how the tennis center operates and said the league and tournament fee structures for the events hosted at WW Tennis are set by USTA Oklahoma. This organization decides where the leagues and tournaments will be played. He said WW Tennis has to bid on the events every two years, as they run in a 2-year cycle.
