Budget work sessions are designed for council to learn about how the city uses taxes dollars to implement their goals. The sessions are not designed to go line by line as this is not the best use of city council time. Budgets will be provided to the council the Thursday before the work session. Council should come prepared to ask questions. These questions from city council should focus on the budget. Budget work sessions do not provide enough time to tackle major items concerning departments or the city. Council members who may want to address certain items and can make them a priority for the upcoming year.
