City of Tomah Elected Official Training

The mayor turned the floor to Clerk Weyer, who facilitated a 50-minute training session on parliamentary procedures, elected official roles and responsibilities, and public hearing procedures. Elected officials were afforded time to ask questions. The question of virtual attendance at meetings was asked, along with how to appropriately participate in motions when there may be a conflict of interest. While virtual attendance is allowed by law, Mayor Dwyer opined that council members should make every effort to attend in-person.
